ECLIPSES IN 1840.

There will be four Eclipses this year, but they will all be invisible on this continent, except one of the Moon.

The first will be a very small eclipse of the Moon, at the time of the full in February—invisible, as the moon will be below the horizon.

The Second will be of the Sun on the 3d of March, between 11 and 12 at night, and of course invisible in America; but in Asia it will be large and splendid.

The third will be of the Moon, on Thursday, August 13th, in the morning, partial and visible, as follows:—Beginning, 1h. 9m.; middle of the eclipse, 2h. 34m.; end, 3h. 59m.—apparent or solar time. Digits eclipsed, 7^o 17' on the moon's northern limb, in the southern side of the earth's shadow.

The fourth will be of the Sun, a grand and total eclipse, on the morning of Thursday, August 25th, at about half past 2 o'clock—of course invisible; but by reason of the moon's south latitude, it would not be visible in North America, were it to happen after sunrise.

MORNING AND EVENING STARS.

Venus will be Morning Star till July 27th; thence Evening Star. Jupiter also will be Morning Star till May 4th; thence Evening Star till November 21st; and then again Morning Star. Mars will be Evening Star till May 4th; thence Morning Star through the year. Saturn will be Morning Star till June 9th; thence Evening Star till December 15th; after that Morning Star again.

MAIL ARRANGEMENTS AT SAINT JOHN.

Mails depart for, and arrive from Fredericton daily;—for Canada, they close on Monday and Friday evenings, and arrive on Wednesday and Saturday evenings.

Mails for Halifax, Yarmouth, Windsor, Kentville, &c. (via Digby,) close on Saturday evenings, and arrive on Tuesday afternoons.

Mails (by land) for Halifax, Miramichi, Dorchester, Sussex Vale, Kingston, &c. close on Wednesday evenings, and arrive on Friday evenings; and for Halifax and Dorchester they are made up on Saturday evenings, and arrive on Monday evenings.

Mails from the United States, Saint Andrews, &c. arrive on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, and close the same evenings at six o'clock.

The Mail from Saint Martins arrives at 6 p. m. on Tuesday, and is made up on Wednesday at 10 a. m.

While the steamboats are running, three additional Mails are forwarded to, and received from St. Andrews and the United States—arriving and closing on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings.

The Saint Andrews and Saint John Stage Coach Company's Coach (carrying the Mails,) leaves St. Andrews on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings, and arrives at Saint John the same evenings—starts from the City on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday mornings, and arrives at Saint Andrews the same evenings.

The "Harvey" Eastern Royal Mail Stage leaves Saint John every Sunday and Thursday morning at six o'clock, and arrives at Dorchester the same days at 10 p. m.;—leaves Dorchester on Monday and Friday mornings, (meeting the Miramichi Mail Stage at the Bend at 7 a. m. on Fridays,) and arrives in St. John the same nights.

The Saint John Stage Coach Company run the "Victoria" Coach three times a week to Dorchester, and once to the Bend of Petticoodiac, through in a day—leaving St. John on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday mornings at six o'clock—and Dorchester on Monday and Friday mornings, immediately after the arrival of the Halifax Mail, and the Bend on Wednesday at 5 a. m.

Steamers start from St. John and Fredericton every morning and evening (except Sunday) during the summer; and from St. John for St. Andrews and Eastport, every Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning, returning on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday;—for Digby and Annapolis on Monday and Friday mornings, returning on Tuesdays and Saturdays; and for Windsor on Tuesday evening, returning on Wednesday.—A new boat, intended to ply in the Bay of Fundy and to extend her trips to Boston, has recently been built by Messrs. Jas. Whitney & Co., and will afford additional facilities to travellers.

SIGNALS

Made at Partridge Island on the approach of Vessels to the Harbour of Saint John.

- One Ball close, for one square-rigged vessel.
- One Ball, half hoisted, for two square-rigged vessels.
- Two Balls, close, for three square-rigged vessels.
- Two Balls, separated, for four square-rigged vessels.
- A Pendant of any colour, for five square-rigged vessels.
- A Pendant under a Ball, for six square-rigged vessels.
- A Pendant over a Ball, half hoisted, for seven square-rigged vessels.
- A Pendant under two Balls, close, for eight square-rigged vessels.
- A Pendant between two Balls, separate, for nine square-rigged vessels.
- A Flag of any colour, for ten or more vessels.

[The above are hoisted at the East or West yard-arm, according to the quarter the vessels first appear in, and when their rig can be made out, the following descriptive colours will be hoisted at the mast head:]

- A Union Jack for a Flag Ship, with or without a squadron.
 - " with a red pendant over, for a two decker.
 - " with a blue pendant over, for a frigate.
 - " with a white ditto, for a small armed vessel.
 - A blue pendant, for a merchant's ship or harque.
 - A red ditto, for a merchant brig or brigantine.
 - A white and blue ditto, for a foreign square-rigged vessel.
 - A white ditto, without a ball, for a topsail schooner or sloop.
 - A flag blue and white horizontally, a neutral fleet.
 - A pendant white and blue, a neutral man of war.
 - A blue flag, a neutral merchant ship.
 - A red, white and blue flag, an enemy's fleet.
 - A red, white and blue pendant, an enemy's man of war.
 - A Union Jack over neutral or enemy's signals, the vessel is detained, or a prize.
 - A white flag over any signal, the vessel bears a flag of truce.
 - A red flag, pierced white, for a steam boat from Digby.
 - A blue flag, pierced white, for a steam boat from Saint Andrews or Eastport.
 - A Ball at the mast head, vessel is on shore or in distress: should immediate aid be necessary, guns to be fired.
- In thick weather a gun will be fired at Partridge Island, in answer to each gun heard at sea. There is a Fog Bell on the Island, which is rung in foggy weather, to warn vessels of their approach to the shore.
- When a vessel requires a Pilot, her descriptive pendant will be shown at the yard arm, instead of a ball.

TIME FOR GOING THROUGH THE FALLS,

NEAR THE CITY OF SAINT JOHN.

The Falls are level or still water, at about three and a half hours on the flood, and about two and a half on the ebb, which makes them passable four times in twenty-four hours, about ten or fifteen minutes each time. — No other rule can be given, as much depends on the floods in the river Saint John, and the time of high water or full sea, which is often hastened by high winds, and in proportion to the height of them.

*Hail, old blustering WINTER! in lily white roquelaure drest;
Of frolic and fun the fomentor, we give thee a shake by the fist.*

This is the month of abundant snows, and all the intensity of frost; yet by this means the seeds of infection are killed, and pestilence destroyed in embryo: so the cold of affliction tends to mortify our corruptions, and subdue our vicious habits; and the rugged school of misfortune strains the mind to healthy exertions.

FEBRUARY.

2d Month.

*Hark, from the woods, what sturdy blows loud echo o'er the hills ;
The forest falls, the wood-pile grows, and timber crowds the mills.*

This is generally considered the most cheerless month in the year ; though there are pleasant varieties of it. The trees and shrubs are borne down with sparkling congelations, and coral berries glow through the ice. The sultana of night reigns on her throne in the blue zenith. The firmament, clear and unsullied, puts on its brightest hue ; and the stars, in thronging multitudes, and with a peculiar brilliancy, glitter through the fair expanse.

3d Month.

MARCH.

1840.

MARCH comes, and shrouds the ample skies; the ice-bound trees are torn,
The powdered snow in columns flies, on airy pinions borne.

This is a rude and boisterous month, possessing many of the characteristics of winter, yet awakening sensations perhaps more delicious than the two following spring months; for it gives us the first announcement and taste of spring. The weather is mild and cold alternately, but winter soon disappears, before this genial season.

APRIL.

4th Month.

*Mild April sweeps in copious showers, which fructify the earth :
And tender dormant embryo flowers are called to early birth.*

In this month the business of creation seems resumed ; the vital spark rekindles in dormant existences ; and all things "live, and move, and have their being." The earth puts on her livery to await the call of her Lord. The great eye of the world "sees and shines" with gladdening glances. The air is mild and balmy ; and all nature feels the revivifying and all-pervading influence.

MAY.

*Thrice welcome MAY, on fragrant wing, inspiring thoughts of love!
The feathered songsters sweetly sing, and music fills the grove.*

The SPRING is now complete; the winds have done their work; the warm and genial sun and rains have saturated and fertilized the earth; there are clear crystal mornings; neons of blue sky and white clouds, and nights in which the growing moon seems all loveliness.

JUNE.

6th Month.

NEW-BRUNSWICK FARMERS, don't give up, but mind your vegetation,
For AGRICULTURE is a sort of bulwark to the NATION.

What yearnings for the enjoyment of pure air and sunshine, in fresh meadows and verdant fields, are in hearts alive to nature, at the name and coming of this sweet month! How they rejoice in the season! the beautiful days, inviting walks in green lanes and woodlands, before the full glory of the year comes on, while the earth teems with sweet herbs and tiny flowers.

JULY.

*Hark, how the rattling thunders roar, see the wing'd lightnings fly,
They shake the earth from shore to shore, and rend the vaulted sky.*

SUMMER! glowing summer! This is the month of heat and sunshine; of clear fervid skies, dusty roads, and shrinking streams: when doors and windows are thrown open—a cool gale is the most welcome of all visitors, and every drop of rain is grateful as the manna in the wilderness.

AUGUST.

8th Month.

*See crowds of reapers crown the hills, while mowers sweep the plain,
The cart the spacious scaffold fills, with loads of yellow grain.*

Whoever would enjoy the beauties of this season, should escape if possible from the heat and dust of crowded cities and frequented highways, to the recesses of the country, to nature's solitudes, it is here, in her uncultured haunts, that Summer now holds her court.—The woods are most delicious retreats during the fiery noons of August.

*The golden orchard loaded stands, waiting its master's will ;
Soon as he issues his commands, round runs the creaking mill.*

Potatoes now begin to ripen, and of all the fruits of the field, few can surpass good early Blue-noses. Pleasant is it at all times to wander in the woods; but especially so at this season: their tempered gloom: their silence: the wild cries that ever and anon flit through them: the leaves which already rustle to the tread, all is full of a thoughtful pleasantness.

OCTOBER.

10th Month.

*The sun to southern climes retires, to bless them with his beams,
The verdure of the fields expires, frost chills the purling streams.*

This month bears nearly the same character in the fall of the year, as April does in the spring. The beginning of April is still wintry; the end often lays strong claims to the name of summer; the beginning of October is frequently distinguished by the lingering of summer warmth and flowers; the end by frost and snows.

*The Summer's past, the Harvest's o'er, the Wintry winds are near,
The swallow seeks a milder shore, the leaf is dead and sere.*

We are now in a month of storms and mists; of the whirling away of the withered leaves, and the introduction to complete winter. Rain, hail, and wind chase each other over the fields and amongst the woods in rapid alternations. The flowers are gone: our very gardens are desolate; their floral splendours are dead; naked stems and decaying leaves have taken the place of verdure.

DECEMBER.

12th Month.

Old hoary WINTER comes at last, all powdered like a bear;

What though our Summer joys are past, we'll frolic in the snow.

It is now complete WINTER; the vapourish and cloudy atmosphere wraps about with dimness and chillness; the reptiles and other creatures that sleep, or hide during the cold weather, have all retired to their winter quarters: the fields are disrobed of their summer mantles, and the trees look but like skeletons of what they were.

LIGHT HOUSES.

Commissioners for Light Houses in the Bay of Fundy.—John Ward, senr., Robert W. Crookshank, Thomas Barlow, John Ward, jun., Lauchlan Donaldson, and W. F. W. Owen, Esquires.

Commissioners for Partridge Island and the Beacon Light Houses.—John Ward, senr., and Lauchlan Donaldson, Esquires.

Cape Sable Seal Island Light.—The first Light in approaching the Bay of Fundy, is on the South Point of the Seal Island. This is a plain white Light—elevated about 80 feet above high water mark, and may be seen in approaching the Island from any point of the compass. A very dangerous rock, under water, but upon which the sea always breaks, called Blonde Rock, lies about 2 miles s. s. w. by compass, from the Light House. Between this rock and the Island, there are some dangers—the ground is rocky throughout, and large vessels, therefore, ought not to attempt passing between them.

A Light House has this year (1839), been built at the entrance of Yarmouth Harbour, on which will be exhibited a Revolving Light.

Brier Island Light.—In advancing up the Bay, the next Light is situated on Brier Island, about half a mile n. e. from the n. w. point thereof, with an improved Lantern and Lamp. This light will therefore be much more beneficial to the trade of the Bay than formerly.—A plain white Light.

Digby Gut Light.—The next Light on the coast of Nova Scotia is placed on the West side of the Digby Gut—from Brier Island North Eastward. The coast is very bold and not indented; the Light is therefore chiefly intended as a guide into Digby Basin. The Lamps and Lanterns were renewed in the Spring of 1835, and reflectors furnished, so that this Light is in high order.—A white Light.

Gannet Rock Light.—This Light bears from the Light on Brier Island, N. W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. 21 miles. It is intended to warn vessels of their approach to a very dangerous range of shoals and ledges, which extend from the Old Proprietor to the Seal Islands off Machias, a distance of about twenty miles.

Bearings from the Gannet Rock Light House—

To the Old Proprietor, which dries at $\frac{1}{2}$ ebb, (very dangerous), n. by n. $\frac{1}{2}$ n. 7 miles.

" Black Rock, (always above water 25 feet) off White Head, n. e. $\frac{1}{2}$ e.

" South West Head of Grand Manan, n. w. $\frac{1}{2}$ n.

" Northernmost of the Murr Ledges, (dry at $\frac{1}{2}$ ebb) n. w. by w. $\frac{1}{2}$ w.

" Southernmost of ditto, called Saint Mary's Ledge, (always out of water), s. w. by w. $\frac{1}{2}$ w.

" Machias Seal Island Lights, distant about 13 miles, w. by n. $\frac{1}{2}$ n.

NOTE.—Between the Northernmost and Southernmost of the Murr Ledges, there is a range of dangerous rocks and shoals, many of them always above water, and which extend Westward from the Light House about four miles; from this range, farther Westward, about eight miles, lies a dangerous breaker, called the Roaring Bull. This may be avoided by keeping three remarkable headlands near the s. w. end of Grand Manan, open.—The red glass having been removed from the Lantern, there is now a flash light—whirls—twenty seconds dark and forty light in each minute.

Two fixed white lights upon the Machias & 1 Islands, were put into operation in 1832—they are elevated about forty-five feet above high water, and bear from each other e. s. e. and w. n. w. distant about 200 feet, by which they will be immediately distinguished from all other lights upon the coast, (British or American)—the following are the bearings from them, viz. :

To the Southernmost Murr Ledge, (St. Mary's) e. s. e. easterly.

" Gannet Rock Light, E. by S. $\frac{1}{4}$ S. 13 miles.

" Southern Head of Grand Manan, E. by N. $\frac{1}{4}$ N.

" Northern Head of Grand Manan, N. E. $\frac{1}{4}$ E.

" N. E. Rock, distant 2 miles. N. E. by N.

" Little River Head, N. by W.

" Libby Island Light House, (American,) N. W. by W.

Vessels standing in to the Northward, between these Lights and the Gannet Rock, should tack or haul off the moment they bring these Lights in one, as they will then not be more than three fourths of a mile from the Murr Ledges, if more than five miles to the East of the lights.

Head Harbour Light.—Next in order after passing Grand Manan, is Head Harbour Light. This is placed on the North East extremity of Campo Bello, and is a guide to vessels entering the main Channel to West Isles, Moose Island, and the inner Bay of Passamaquoddy; it enables vessels also at all times to enter Head Harbour—it is a fixed white light.

Point Le Preau Lights.—Upon this projecting head land two lights are placed, one above the other, and distant eighteen feet.—Both lights can be seen from every point of the compass, where they may be useful—both are fixed and white.

Partridge Island Light.—This light, at the entrance of the River and Harbour of Saint John, having been established upwards of forty years, requires no particular notice further than that it is a fixed white light.

Beacon Light.—Within Partridge Island, and upon a Spit or bar, which extends about half a mile s. s. e. off Sand Point, and which dries at two thirds ebb, stands the Beacon Tower. Upon this Tower a light is established, which is eminently useful to the coasting trade of Saint John, and to all other vessels having pilots on board, as it enables them to enter the harbour at all hours of the night. A fixed white light.

Quaco.—A revolving white light is placed on a small rock off Quaco Head, showing twice full and twice dark in a minute. This light can be seen from any quarter where a vessel can approach.

This year a new Light House has been erected on Cape Enrage in Westmorland, nearly opposite to Apple River Harbour. It has not as yet (Oct. 1839.) been lighted, but may when the winter sets in. A plain white light.

The half of the expence of the Cape Sable and Brier Island Lights is paid by New Brunswick, as they are so highly useful to vessels trading with this Province.

West Quoddy Light.—This is an American Light, and is placed on the West side of the entrance into the Saint Croix by Lubec and Eastport;—a new light house has lately been erected here, and the light much improved.

LIGHT HOUSES IN NOVA SCOTIA.

[In addition to the Light Houses in Nova Scotia, before noticed, there are the following.]

Sambro—Sambro Island, mouth of Halifax Harbour—a fixed light.
Roseway—M^cNutt's Island, mouth of Shelburne Harbour—two lights, one above the other. [volving light.]

Liverpool—Coffin's Island, mouth of Liverpool Harbour—one revolving light.
Canso—Island, Gut of Canso—two lights, one above the other.

Halifax—Meagher's Beach, Halifax—one light.

Pictou—Entrance to Pictou Harbour—one fixed light

Low Point—Entrance to Sydney Harbour—one fixed light.

The light house on the S. E. end of Cross Island, at the entrance of Lunenburg Harbour, in lat. 44 22, N. long. 64 6, W. would be put in operation on the 1st of December, 1839, and will be distinguished from Sambro and Liverpool Lights, by exhibiting two lights, one 30 feet above the other: the lower one will be a fixed light, the upper one will flash or be darkened at intervals of one minute, and can be distinguished from the gradual motion of a revolving light, by the quickness of its motion or change from light to dark. The building is painted red, to distinguish it in the day time from Sambro and Liverpool light houses, which are painted white; and as a further mark of distinction, Cross Island is a low Island, near a mile in extent and thickly covered with trees, whereas Sambro is a high bluff rock, without trees of any description.

Notice has been given that the Light House lately erected on the Island of Scatarie, would be put in operation on the 1st of December, 1839. The building is painted white, and is elevated about 90 feet above the level of the sea, and will be distinguished by a revolving light of a superior description, visible one minute and invisible half a minute. A good boat will always be kept at the establishment to render assistance to vessels in distress, and a gun is placed there to answer signals. The light house is placed near the North Eastern extreme of the Island, and can be seen from a southward or seaward position, and without interruption from any highland, until the compass bearing becomes to the eastward of N. E. by N. when it will be speedily obscured, and any vessel so placed on that side of the Island, is in danger either of the rocks of Scatarie or the southern shores of Cape Breton Island.—From any position to the Northward or in the Gulf of Saint Lawrence, the light can be seen while the distance admits, but when it bears to the Eastward of S. E. a ship is in danger on the N. E. shores of Cape Breton, therefore as a present rule, whereby due warning may be obtained, the light house should never be brought to bear Eastward of N. N. E. or S. E. by S. by compass, nor yet approach nearer than one and a half or two miles.

Two Light Houses have been erected on the North and South extremes of the Island of Saint Paul's, and the one on the North end would be put in operation on the 1st of December, 1839. It will show a very brilliant fixed light, and is elevated about 130 feet above the level of the sea. The one on the south end is expected to go into operation in a short time: a boat and gun are placed there likewise. One of the light houses will be always open until a ship is on the rocks near the centre. The Northern light can be seen to the southward, on any bearing except between N. by E. and E. by N. when it is obscured by the hills to the southward of it.—The southern light can be seen from the northward on any bearing except between S. S. E. and W. when that is obscured by the hills to the northward of it, and when clear either light can be seen for six leagues.—The positions of these two light houses appear to be admirably calculated for the purpose of facilitating the navigation of the Saint Lawrence, as one light will be always open, and either can be passed within a mile.

APRIL.—All vegetation is now on the spring, hence the name of this season of the year. Farmers too are on the alert, and every thing seems to be teeming with life and vigour. Speed the plough we say, and prosperity to the tillers of the earth. Pity that the farmer's sons should be so weak as to imagine their father's occupation degrading, and that it is unfitting their delicate hands should wield the hoe or flail. Poh! So then Tommy must have a place found for him behind some counter in the city, and learn to sell challies, catgut, and mousline de laine; or, peradventure, he may have a stand in a grocery, and retail molasses, hard-soap, salt-fish and segars. O, fudge for the folly and nonsense of the times! Others there are who had rather become cobblers than be well worthy our attention.—How can we save many hours to better profit, than by perusing the very useful hints and remarks in those publications. But Mr. Grumpy says,—“Away with your peaky reading! Think I don't know how to raise taters and turnips without looking into one of these ere gobbled up prints? I guess as how my father knew as much as any one, and I learnt of him.” So cries out prejudice, this noisy ignoramus, which ever has been and ever will be raising its voice against all improvement.

FEBRUARY.—A pitchfork with but one prong, a dung-fork with a broken handle, a rake with three teeth only;—these are the tools of farmer Slouchy. You know him my friends; yonder is his domicile, with an old pair of breeches stuffed in at the window, and where the leaky roof has to crouch to let the scanty chimney out. Is this the way to work it, with a farm of two hundred acres of as good land as ever Sir John Sinclair set foot upon? Alas! what of the soil without cultivation? What of improvement without spirit and ambition?—Slouchy, thou comest from the line of the Muddlers, a stupid set; thou movest in the train of the Fuddlers, and so we gave thee up, as of little value or consequence in the concern of agriculture. Yet the pity that this fine lot of land should suffer neglect; that this noble sod-plot should be backed in upon, and that some life-stirring Virgilianus of the sod should not have a chance here to show how the labour of man can turn the rich offerings of nature to his best advantage. But so it is, and so it will be. Slouchies will grow up in society, as well as thistles and thorns in the soil. We must suppose there is nothing made in vain, and this is all the way we can account for the existence of many things.

MARCH.—Hold on, hold on, my friend. Zounds! it's a chance if you do not lose both chapeau and gaberdine, there is such a gale blowing. These turbulent, whirling, whistling winds of old March are without mercy; they have just carried away a whole cartload of excellent herds-grass and red-top for Capt. Thoughtless. In this the unwary Captain, good easy soul, was quite out of his reckoning, or rather did not reckon at all. Who would think of removing hay on a day like this without binding? But so it was, the Captain neglected his fastenings, and the wind came, like tigers upon a sheepfold, and, in their rage, bore it away, so that not one straw could be found upon another!—How is it within doors, my worthy brethren? Do you see to the scatterings? There is a little word in a farmer's vocabulary which has much meaning. It would be well to keep its page open; ay, write it down in large capitals, and nail it upon the lintels of your doors, so that, as often as you enter the house or barn, you may have it in full view. It will seem to say,—“come, shake hands with Economy, the ever safe and sure friend of the farmer. I will teach you the art of rightly spending and tending and lending and mending. The very capsheaf of management for your business."

APRIL.—All vegetation is now on the spring, hence the name of this season of the year. Farmers too are on the alert, and every thing seems to be teeming with life and vigour. Speed the plough we say, and prosperity to the tillers of the earth. Pity that the farmer's sons should be so weak as to imagine their father's occupation degrading, and that it is unfitting their delicate hands should wield the hoe or flail. Poh! So then Tommy must have a place found for him behind some counter in the city, and learn to sell challies, catgut, and Lousline de laine; or, peradventure, he may have a stand in a grocery, and retail molasses, hard-soap, salt-fish and segars. O, fudge for the folly and nonsense of the times! Others there are who had rather become cobblers than be found engaged in that noble occupation for which their Maker intended them. So go where you will, you will hear of the music of their peg-driving, a business thought, forsooth, more dignified than that employment in which an English nobleman glories, viz. agriculture.

"An undevout astronomer is mad," said the poet, and I have a mind to add also that an undevout farmer is the same. We see order and design, beauty and majesty, wisdom and power, throughout all the works of creation. Is not the farmer then privileged above all others?

MAY.—"The bright rosy morning peeps over the hills;" so, haste out to milking, my fair country girls. Some of our pretty damsels are quite too long upon the pillow. There are the daughters of old Dominic Dozy; it is next to impossible to arouse them. "Wake, Bridget, awake! Come, Dolly; the blue heifer is lowing; Jenny, Jenny, we are waiting for breakfast!" But what signifies this calling and bawling for such sleepy noddles. What! a farmer's daughter in bed after sunrise? I tell you what, neighbor Hoehandle, this would not answer the purpose in your family and mine. "Up and be doing," is the word with us, and thanks to our fathers and mothers, that they brought us up in the good old fashion, making us put it into practice. Fence, fence, fence! See what rents the winds and frosts have made! Low lay the long lengths, as some of our modern poets would phrase it: but I am not disposed for rhyming. Mr. Slack, I tell you in plain prose, that the time has now arrived for farmers to make all snug and safe about their enclosures. See to it, and not delay. Have you a negligent neighbor in this matter? Then urge him, press him, push him on to the business, until he does his part upon the division line. How much trouble arises from having one of these careless, lifeless dolittles alongside of us.

JUNE.—"As a man soweth, so shall he reap. Sluggishness at the beginning will be followed by want at the end of the year." This is certainly true doctrine, and I have no doubt but that many, moved by a knowledge of its truth, have attended to all the necessary preparation for their harvest crops. If, however, any have been dilatory and sluggish, if any have been whiling and loitering, turning and tumbling upon their beds in the morning, or posting themselves by the way-side and telling long yarns and gossip nonsense, when they ought to have been in their fields and gardens, when they ought to have been engaged in the duties of a careful, watchful and industrious farmer, such ones must not complain of the natural consequences of their conduct. If their children cry for bread, when smiling Autumn comes, pouring forth her bounties to others, will not the compunctions of shame and mortification keenly affect their hearts, that they have neglected the means given them by Providence to provide things comfortable and necessary for their own, and therefore must depend on the charities of a neighbour? Wake, then, thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead! Thy cattle, thy swine, thy tillage, thy mowlands, thy fences, thy forests, thy implements, thy barns, dwellings, family, children, aye, and the wife of thy bosom, all cry AWAKE! be faithful to thy duty, and we will repay it.

JULY.—Hark to the music of the merry haymakers at the break of day! It is a fit accompaniment to the various melodies of the morning, feathered songsters. Turwhit, turwhit, it goes, as the rifle passes over the glistening steel! Round and round the meadow they sweep, and, before the village clock strikes nine, the beauty of the field is laid low! Come along with me, ye steeping, stewing city wights; who had rather endure the pester, plague and torment of trade, sometimes fretting, and anon trembling at the non-payments and non-punctualities in business affairs, than to swing the scythe, or follow the plough: come along with me, and see the steady, even, easy, consistent and independent life of a farmer. No one here is thrown into distraction because his note has been protested; no one here is startled at the sight of a bailiff approaching his premises.

AUGUST.—Thunder, lightning, hail-storm, tempest, tornado, dog-days and suffocation! How they come, in their angry fury or swelling propensity. Are you a weatherwise? Every farmer ough' as far as in him lies, be prepared for all weathers. "Innumerable advantages would arise," says a writer on agriculture, "to the husbandman from a foreknowledge of the weather." However, this may not always be true. I very well recollect that my worthy grandmother, (heaven bless her memory,) kept for aye the breast-bone of a wild goose fast nailed over the kitchen fire-place. Here, in this bone, she would say, were sure indications of the approaching changes of the weather. How she could tell I do not exactly recollect, if I ever knew. But I remember that my grandfather had no confidence in her prognostications, and would often reply to her wise sayings with a 'fudge,' or a 'humph!' This would be rather hard upon her vanity, and she would retort by saying something of this kind: "Well, Mr. Span-shackle, if you get your hay wet, it will be good enough for you, and so there." But my grandfather would never send a rejoinder, as the lawyers call it, for he was of a peaceable make, and knew how important it was to maintain quiet in his household affairs. He and my grandmother, on the whole, were suitably yoked, and pulled well together.

SEPTEMBER.—Pomona, I see thy red, fat cheeks with pleasure; for though I am no cider bibber, I love to feast on thy sweet codlings, thy nonpareils, and thy seek-no-farthens. Who would cut down and destroy his orchard, to keep from drinking cider? Surely the man that does this must indeed have a "weak head," a head subject to be fuddled with strange notions, as well as with strong drink. Give me temperance in all things. Away with the violence of rum and the violence of passion and folly! Verily one might as well say he will have no potatoes or rye growing upon his farm, as have no orchard; for the reason that gin and brandy, those deliterious liquids, that cause so much mischief, are distilled from those materials. Nay, he might even cut off his right hand, because, in some incautious and evil moment, he has signed his name to a bond that has cost him trouble and distress. No, no, Mr. Hasty, I shall not destroy my fine Spitzensbergs, nor my Roxbury Russetings, nor my beautiful Baldwins. Come, my companions of the furrow, this is one of the finest months in the year for business, or, if you please, for rational pleasures. How delightful so journey over hill, over dale, through the broom on the vale, as the song says! Plenteous harvest appears on every side, and every husbandman is cheerful and happy.

OCTOBER.—Look yonder in Tom Spavin's cornfield! Six cattle are doing business for themselves at a high rate! This is what comes from inattention to fence, &c. Such sort of harvesting Tom is more or less acquainted with, and from year to year he is seldom without this kind of help. But where is he? Probably gone to Cheatem's Corner to trade horses, for I just saw him pass upon a poor limping gelding, and leading the ghost of another, which the crows seemed to make derision of, as they flew over, cawing, and flapping their wings. How is it that men can thus love an old horse, hoof-bound, spavined, affected with gigs and glanders, wheezing and worn out, better than their wives and children? It certainly seems to be a fact. How happy Tom might live by casting off a set of loose and lawless companions, and devoting his attention to the cultivation of the enjoyments, pleasures and profits that may be found at home, with his wife, his children, his farm, &c. He has good land in plenty, good neighbours all around him, who would be ready at all times to lend the helping hand. But he that would have help from others, must first attempt to help himself. The neighbours are vexed at his negligence; his wife is discouraged; his daughters endure mortification; his only son, a youngster, begins to show an inclination for the pranks of his father.

NOVEMBER.—Dig on, Spuddle, and go ahead in this work; for, you see, old Winter is about closing his window blinds upon us. This digging potatoes is cold work for the fingers, to be sure, and I suppose you think that a glass of grog would serve to put warmth and vigour to them; but you are mistaken in this, neighbour. It is certainly nothing but the fuddling quality in rum that makes people love it.—This sweet delirium is what they like above all things. But, farmers, we must beware of this lethe. It's death to all our operations! I know one who dearly loves to take his glass; he sits and dozes while the weeds overtop his crops in summer, and harvest always cries—"You've come too late." Dig on, Spuddle, dig on; it is rather dirty work, but mind ye, it brings clean profits.

DECEMBER.—"Do you know that strange genius who writes the Farmer's Calendar?" said Caleb Quidnunc to Nick Knowall. "I rather guess I do," replied Nick. But this was all poor Caleb could obtain from Nick, who knew well how to keep dark that which he could tell nothing about. Old Mrs. Jellyflower, who values her almanack next to her bible, has for years been in great straits to know "who upon earth this calendar man can be, that writes so kind of curiously."—"Who but the almanack-maker himself, to be sure," says Mr. Justice Blunt. "Not so clear about that," replies the old lady, "for Mr. Weatherwise used sometimes to give him a little bit of a puff in his preface. I insinuate to find out by the way of our Minister. He is up to all larnin." Such are the grand speculations about concealed authors. Junius and my noble self can keep the world in tease.—Nevertheless, I have an inclination to gratify all my patrons in a proper way, and have no objection to subscribing my name here at the close of this, which, peradventure, may be the last of my addressing you. Be it known, then, to Caleb, Nick, mother Jellyflower, Squire Blunt, and all, that I, who have so long had the pleasure of penning down my ideas, I hope, for your benefit, am no other than

USEFUL HINTS ON VARIOUS SUBJECTS.

Hints to Young Farmers and Mechanics and others.—Never be above your calling ; nor afraid of the frock and the apron. Put off no business till to-morrow, which ought, and can be done to-day. As soon as the spring opens, and the frost is out of the ground, put your fences in order. Plant no more ground than you can well manure and cultivate to advantage. Never hire a man to do a piece of work which you can do yourself. Every day has its appropriate duties ; attend to them in succession. Keep no more stock than you can keep in order, and that of the best kind. Never contract a debt without a reasonable probability of paying it at the time agreed on. Remember that economy and industry are the two great pillars of every man's prosperity. Should you take any periodical Journal, pay for it in advance. Never carry your notes in your pocket-book, as the desk or trunk is the fitter place. Keep them on file, and in order, ready to be found when wanted. Keep a place for your tools, and your tools in their places. Instead of spending a rainy day at the dram-shop, as many do, to their final ruin, repair whatever wants mending ; post your books. Drive your business, and do not permit your business to drive you. Never trust your money in the hands of that man who will put his own to hazard. When a debt becomes due, pay it at the time, whether your creditor wants it or not. Never ask him "to wait till next week," but pay it. Never insult him by saying, "you do not want it." Punctuality is a key to every man's chest. By constant temperance, habitual, moderate exercise, and unaffected honesty, you will avoid the fees of the lawyer and the sheriff, gain a good report, and probably add at least ten years to your life. When a friend calls to see you, treat him with the utmost complaisance ; but if important business call your attention, politely excuse yourself, and he will excuse you. Keep a memorandum book—enter all notes, whether received or given ; all moneys received or paid out ; all expenses, and all circumstances of importance.

PRACTICAL OBSERVATIONS ON POTATO HUSBANDRY.—By J. Irons, of Halifax.—The Caledonian Horticultural Society, in the year 1811, offered their gold medal for the best essay on the diseases to which the potato crops are liable, especially the curl, which wrought destruction on the potato crops in Scotland similar to that experienced in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, from dry rot. This induced several scientific men to institute a series of experiments on the culture of this valuable root. They awarded the prize to Mr. Dickson, Nurseryman, in Edinburgh, for his valuable discoveries, which may be found recorded at length in the first number of the Memoirs of the Caledonian Horticultural Society. It was first discovered by Mr. Dickson that these diseases were produced from an over ripening of the tuber. He proved this by taking up a part of the half ripened potatoes in summer, and storing them for seed : in the following season these were planted with the other crops, and the result proved that the half ripened seed produced a more abundant and an earlier crop than the others, and quite free from disease. These statements when first published, appeared so much at variance with the general laws of nature, that a number of writers endeavoured to refute them, by reasoning from analogy, without due attention to the first principles of vegetable physiology. Mr. James Rennie, professor of zoology in King's College, London, has recently published a compendium of agriculture, wherein he describes the causes of this productive power in half ripened seeds, of some vegetable species ; which he very clearly illustrates in the case of the potato : all seeds must have a certain portion of lactial juice inherited in themselves, to support vegetation until the plant forms roots to draw nourishment from the soil. In the case of the potato, it is much longer in a state of dependency than most other leguminous plants ; it forms its first root so very slowly, that if the seed do not contain a sufficient supply of nourishment to sustain the plant till it can feed from the soil, it must canker and often die. A full ripe potato does not contain this nutritive sap in the same degree as a half ripe one, the juices being converted into a more solid form of pulp, or animal food, which renders it a bad nurse to a future offspring. The same law holds good in many culmiferous species, such as peas, broad beans, kidney beans, &c. Any one may easily prove the correctness of this position by selecting seeds before they become dead ripe ; for instance take up a quantity of half ripe potatoes, pack them in bran, saw dust, or chaff, plant them at the same time with other potatoes, and the result will be, that the potatoes thus selected, will yield long tubers, fit for table, from two to three weeks before the others, and the produce more abundant."

If we could divest ourselves of ancient prejudices, and examine cause and effect on philosophical principles, these facts would be no secret. I would add, that on the same principle, a change of seed from a late to an early climate is always more productive than the contrary, which the history of the potatoe will prove : It is a native of tropical America, and when found in its natural climate, is hardly eatable. Yet after being cultivated in a late climate, and re-introduced to its native soil and climate, it is so much improved as to become one of the chief luxuries of the table. By due attention to these facts, I make no doubt that many of the evils attending potato culture might be avoided, if not thoroughly remedied. The dry rot now so common, appears to me to be entirely a local, not a hereditary disease. The blue potato which is universally and deservedly preferred in this country has been cultivated in the same climate about 50 years (time sufficient to wear out its constitution, and cause a degeneracy.) This might be proved by sending seed of it to Europe : if it was subject to dry rot successively there as it is here, then the disease would be hereditary ; if not (and I think it would not) then the evil would be found local, and could be dealt with accordingly.

ROHAN POTATOES.—The Rohan Potatoe, it seems, has but lately been introduced into this country from France. Its greatest recommendation, it seems, is its wonderful productiveness. And surely, this is of the utmost importance to the farmer, who cultivates them to feed out to his cattle. The quality of the potatoe we do not find very highly spoken of, otherwise than its being a very solid potatoe ; by some it is classed as the second, and by others the third, among our northern potatoes for the table ; they are, however, vastly more productive than any other potatoe known in this country, if what is stated in an account given of them at Hampshire fair, in October, 1828, can be relied on—namely, that Mr. E. Mitchell, from four pounds of seed potatoes, raised 18 bushels, weighing 1,173½ pounds—this is an enormous yield—no doubt they were planted in a rich soil. But still, it is almost incredible, being an increase of almost three hundred fold.

This potatoe, being a native of France, will require early planting, say the first of May, they of course will require a longer time to ripen in. The Rohan Potatoe, of all the other varieties yet known, seems to promise to be a great acquisition to the farmer who raises potatoes for feeding out to his cattle.—Thomas' Almanack.

The Rohan Potatoe.—We are indebted to Edward Allison, Esq. for a few specimens of this very productive vegetable, and as he has kindly authorized us to say that what he has are at the disposal of Agricultural Societies and others, who will take some pains in the cultivation and diffusion of them, we beg leave to call the attention of our readers to the matter. Mr. Allison planted last year 2½ lbs. on the 28th May, the product was 168 lbs. This is an enormous yield, more than four times, we believe, what is obtained from the common potatoe. The Rohan is very long, full of eyes, but not so good a table potatoe as many others—but for fattening cattle it must be invaluable.

Since writing the above we learn that John Fairbanks, Esq. has also raised a quantity of these Potatoes, and presented a bushel to the Agricultural Society for gratuitous distribution. The return made in this case was 110 potatoes, for one potatoe, and 77 lbs. for one lb.—Novascotian, Oct. 16.

CABBAGES.—If you wish to have good cabbages hoe them often. It is not necessary to heap a great quantity of earth around them; but the earth about them should be stirred often and kept loose and light.

Mix Straw with Clover.—Farmers who have straw or coarse old hay, will find a great advantage in mixing them in layers, with hay that is not thoroughly made; the dry stuff will prevent the clover from injuring by moisture, and it imbibes sweetness so that the cattle will eat with a good relish.—Yankee Farmer.

Destroying Insects by Camomile.—In the Irish Gardener's Magazine, it is stated not only that decoctions of the common camomile will destroy insects, but that nothing contributes so much to the health of a garden as a number of camomile plants dispersed through it. No green house or hot house should ever be without camomile, in a green or dried state; either the stalks or the flowers will answer. It is a singular fact, that if a plant is drooping and apparently dying, in nine cases out of ten it will recover if you place a plant of camomile in its vicinity.

To destroy Sorrel.—Thirty bushels of lime to the acre, judiciously spread, would sweeten and neutralize the acids of any soil sufficiently to prevent the growth of this pest.

BOTS IN HORSES.—It is said that bots in horses are caused by a fly that deposits its eggs upon the hair of the horse, which causes an itching, and as the horse scratches himself with his teeth the eggs adhere to the glands of the mouth, and are thence carried with the food and drink into the stomach, and there hatch and become bots. It is also said that if a horse be supplied with salt frequently during the fly season, that the eggs which go thus into the stomach will be destroyed and pass off without producing bots.—Maine Farmer.

SOMETHING NEW.—A contractor on the public works at Illinois has patented a new drill for excavating rocks. A fair day's work with one of these drills and a good horse, is forty-nine feet in the solid rock.

Improvement in Blowing Rocks.—It is said that Mr. Vavnegher, a German in the Brazils, has made the important discovery that sandust (particularly of soft wood,) mixed with gunpowder, in equal parts, has thrice the strength of gunpowder alone, when used in blowing up rocks.

To preserve Eggs perfectly fresh for a Year.—Fill a tight cask, or other vessel, with new laid eggs, then pour in cold thick lime-water, sufficient to cover them; the thicker the lime-water is the better, provided it will fill up all the void spaces; lay a cover lightly over the cask or vessel, keep them from frost and heat, and keep the top moist by occasionally adding a little water.

Cure for the Hooping Cough.—A teaspoon full of castor oil to a table spoonful of molasses; a teaspoon full of the mixture to be given whenever the cough is troublesome. It will afford relief at once, and in a few days effects a cure. The same remedy relieves the croup, however violent the attack.

Hooping Cough.—It is perhaps, not generally known, that when a child has this troublesome and dangerous complaint, if the backbone, from the neck downwards, be rubbed with garlic, previously warmed by the fire, and the patient being also placed near it, a cure is effected in a very short time.

Paste for chapped hands.—Wash a quarter of a pound of unsalted lard—first in common, then in rose water—mix with yolks of two new-laid eggs and a large spoonful of honey. Add as much fine oatmeal, or almond paste as will work it into paste.

Poison for Bed Bugs.—The best method of exterminating effectually those troublesome little things called Bed Bugs is—take one ounce of corrosive Sublimate, finely powdered, and dissolved in a pint of whisky, then wash with a brush where they frequent, and they will soon be got rid of.

Glass Vessels may be cut in two, by tying around them, at the place where you wish to divide, a worsted thread dipped in spirits of turpentine, and then setting fire to the thread.

To remove Ink Spots from Linen.—Take a mould candle or some very pure tallow, melt and dip the spotted part of the linen in the melted tallow, then put it into the wash, when it will become perfectly white.

Snuff useful.—A pinch of snuff applied to a dog's nose, operates so powerfully on the animal's olfactory nerves that however violently engaged in combat he immediately lets go his hold and makes off.

To make a Balking Horse go.—Tie a rope to the animal's tail and pass it between his legs out in front, and pull upon it, and he will move rapidly. This is the plan adopted with jackasses in South America, and they are reputed more stubborn than horses.

New mode of Resuscitation from Drowning.—Close the mouth with the finger, and suck off the foul air from the lungs through the nostrils, and promote respiration by pressing on the abdominal muscles on the sides. By this method, Dr. Fairbrother of Clifton, England, recovered a boy who had been under water a quarter of an hour, and another quarter of an hour had elapsed before the body was operated upon.

English Orthography.—What must be the discouragement in the mind of a foreigner, beginning to learn our language, should he meet with the following sentence:—

"I put dough into the trough, by the slough near the tough, to last the ducks through the day." Here are six different sounds given to the termination ough.

PUNS.

The world's a printing house. Our words and thoughts,

And deeds, are characters of various sizes:

Each soul is a compositor, whose faults

The Levites may correct, but Heaven revises.

Death is the common press, from whence being driven,

We're gathered sheet by sheet, and bound for Heaven.

Avoid arguments with the ladies; in spinning yarn among silks and satins, a man is sure to be worsted. He is also sure to get twisted, and in danger of getting doubled; and when he is doubled and twisted, he may be considered as wound up.

THE FARMER—A SONG.

By J. J. Barker.

A FARMER's life is the life for me,
I own I love it dearly;
And every season full of glee,
I take its labours cheerly—
To plough or sow,
To reap or mow,
Or in the barn to thrash, sir—
All's one to me,

I plainly see, [sir,
'Twill bring me health and cash,
The lawyer leads a harass'd life,
Much like that of a hunted otter,
And 'twixt his own & others' strife,
He's always in hot water—
For foe or friend,
A cause defend,
Howe'er wrong it may be, sir,—
In reason's sight,
Maintain its right,
And dearly earn his fee, sir.

The doctor's styl'd a gentleman,
But this I hold but humming;
For, like a tavern waiting-man,
To every call "he's coming"—
Now here, now there,
Must he repair,

Or starve, sir, by denying;
Like death himself,
Unhappy elf,
He lives by others dying.

A farmer's life, then, let me live,
Obtaining while I lead it,
Enough for self, and some to give
To such poor souls as need it.

I'll drain and fence,
Nor grudge expense,
To give my land good dressing—
I'll plough and sow,
Or drill in row,
And hope from Heaven a blessing.

ENIGMATICAL REBUS.

Transpose a French acre,
And be not a Quaker,
But try it again and again,
On consideration
You'll find a relation,
While living, will always remain.
If again you transpose,
You'll truly disclose
An instrument us'd by the surgeon:
In part or in fall

'Tis used at the skull,
And skilfully by the surgeon.
Drop the last and transpose,
And plainly it shows
What the idler is oft known to do.
Transpose it completely,
And view it quite neatly,
'Tis talk without weight it is true.
Another time change it,
Transpose and arrange it,
And soon you'll behold a new light;
Erase the first letter,
Transpose you had better,
A fruit it will bring to your sight.
Transpose it again sir,
'Twill show to you plainer,
For it many hung by the neck;
A death I'd choose sooner
To sink in a schooner,
Or perish and die on a wreck.
If again you do mix it,
And rightly do fix it,
You'll see what Mechanics oft do,
The Carpenter, Baker,
Or Royal Shoemaker,
To finish a boot or a shoe.

By A. Mullin, Gagestown.

Charade 1st.

The lawyer, or the litigant,
That would to court repair,
My first he certainly would want,
Or he'd be laughed at there.
In order for to gain the suit,
My second he must be;
And when these are together put,
'Twill plainly shew to thee
That all the race of mankind here,
From zenith to the pole, [sphere,
Thro' ev'ry clime, thro' ev'ry
Are seeking for my whole.

By the same.

Charade 2d.

My first you'll find is still within,
And never is without;
This moment you my next possess,
(Whiles good, whiles bad,) no doubt; last,
When hungry you have done my
These parts together roll,
And while in life, in health, or strength,

Oh never be my whole.

By the same.

A TABLE

FOR FORETELLING THE WEATHER, THROUGH ALL THE LUNATIONS OF EACH YEAR, FOREVER.

(Formed by Dr. Herschell, and revised by Dr. Adam Clarke.)

This Table and the accompanying remarks are the result of many years' actual observation; the whole being constructed on a due consideration of the attraction of the sun and moon, in their several positions respecting the earth, and will, by simple inspection show the observer what kind of weather will most probably follow the entrance of the moon into any of its quarters, and that so near the truth as to be seldom or never found to fail:

	IN SUMMER.	IN WINTER.
If the new moon, first quarter, full moon, or last quarter happens
Between midnight and 2 in the morning, --	Fair.	Hard frost, unless the wind is s. or w.

	Fair.	Fair and frosty.

Observations.—1. The nearer the time of the moon's change, first quarter, full and last quarter are to midnight, the fairer will the weather be during the seven days following. The space for this calculation occupies from ten at night till two next morning.

2.—The nearer to mid day or noon the phases of the moon happen, the more foul or wet weather may be expected during the next seven days. The space for this calculation occupies from ten in the forenoon to two in the afternoon. These observations refer principally to the summer, though they affect spring and autumn nearly in the same ratio.

3.—The moon's change, first quarter, full and last quarter, happening during six of the afternoon hours, that is, from four to ten, may be followed by fair weather; but this is mostly dependent on the wind, as is noted in the table.

4.—Though the weather, from a variety of irregular causes, is more uncertain in the latter part of autumn, the whole of winter, and the beginning of spring, yet, in the main, the above observations will apply to these periods also.

5.—To prognosticate correctly, especially in those cases where the wind is concerned, the observer should be within sight of a good vane, where the four cardinal points of the heavens are correctly placed.
